Subject: 101XXXX/ 10XXX Dialing Patterns

As many of you are aware, the F.C.C. 1-1-98 deadline for blocking the 10XXX and allowing for the 101XXXX dialing pattern is quickly coming up, and I thought that I would give you an update of where INS is.

First of all, the 101XXXX dialing pattern is to allow for the new 4 digit CIC codes for dial around purposes. 3 digit CIC codes are no longer being issued. If you are not sure if your exchanges(s) can support the 101XXXX, a good rule of thumb is if you are SS7 compliant or not. If you are SS7 compliant, then in most cases you can support the new dialing plan, if not, then you will need to make provision for the new dialing pattern soon. If you are still not sure, you can either call the INS Switch Control Center at 830-0440, press 1 or call your consultant or switching vendor for assistance in determining you capabilities. If you find that you are not capable, you will may need to request a waiver from the F.C.C.

INS will allow either dialing plans in the INS tandems, the carriers may not support 10XXX but we will not block it. If a customer dials 10XXX 1+ the call will go through, we only send the carriers the CIC code on international calls. The only limitation is when a new carrier requests access and requests dial around capability, you won't be able to support any new 4 digit CIC codes using the 3 digit pseudo code system designed in 1989. These were designed for those offices not capable of outpulsing 101XXXX and have been exhausted for several months now.

Tim Gunderson tells me that the Switch Control Center technicians have been working with the end offices to get the necessary translations work for allowing 101XXXX. There are still a few exchanges in the 319 area code to be worked, however these should be completed by then end of the month.

During the first quarter of 1998, we will be working with you to block the 10XXX dialing plan in your end offices. if you require it.

If you need any assistance in completing this work and have not been contacted by the INS switching staff, please call 830-0440 and press 1 and we will help you complete this work at no charge.

Thank you for your continued support and cooperation.
